The Day I Will Not Forget

It is the end of the school year, and we are going to the zoo.

It is a real treat for me. I can hardly wait so I leap out of the car and run in.

My first stop is to see the seals because I like to hear them squeal as they speak to each other. Then I am off to see the peacocks with their pretty plumes. Next, I walk to the tigers that are walking back and forth staring at me. What are they thinking?

The morning passes so quickly. It is time for lunch. I have some snacks in my backpack, but I am going to get a hot dog, some chips, and a drink. Later, I can get some cotton candy and peanuts.

Now it is time to visit more animals. Nearby is the reptile house. I love to see the snakes slither in the grass and under the rocks. They are neat! A lot of people don't like snakes, but I surely do.

I wish I could have one for a pet. I am sure that my mom wouldn't agree with me.

I saved the best for last. I love to stand and stare at the monkeys because they are so funny. They leap from tree to tree and hang by their tails. They look like they are doing tricks for us. They even clap when they think they did something funny. There is a baby monkey, and he is so cute. Wouldn't it be fun to have one of those as a pet, too?

It is time to leave, but I wish I could stay longer. There is so much to see here at the zoo. I hope I can come back at least one more time so I can see the rest. I said to my mom and dad, "Please, can I come back? I'll make a deal with you. I'll keep my room very neat, take out the trash each day, clean the yard, and take off my sneakers when they have mud all over them. Please, just let me go back to the zoo this week."

My mom and dad said that I would have to wait until next Sunday because they can't leave their jobs until then. So next Sunday, we will be off to the zoo. It will be very hard to wait that long!
